Term -III

PREFACE

The English textbook for standard VI has been prepared following the guidelines given in the National Curriculum Framework, 2005. It has been created to make English language learning both effective and enjoyable. The aim has been to balance learning the structures and vocabulary of the language with learning their use in everyday life.

The activities have been carefully graded to allow a gradual building of language proficiency. The lessons provide effective individual and collaborative learning in pairs and groups and enable differentiation in multilevel classrooms. Each unit focuses on the themes of natural and social world to stimulate curiosity and imagination, engaging both heart and mind. An ICT Corner has been introduced in each unit for the first time in a State Board Text Book to develop current digital literacy skills .

How to use the book

- The Third Term English Book for Standard VI has two units and a play.
- Each unit is planned for a month.
- Each unit is divided into sections and each section is designed to initiate and sustain the Active Learning process.

Section II

Read the section on your own. Draw a picture to describe the part that you like the most.

I could see the corner, in a haze. I was starting to whoop with glee, but the whoop froze on my lips. There, right in the middle of the road, stood alone cow! I jammed on the brakes and the cycle stopped abruptly, but I could not stop the motion of my own body. I few over the handbars and landed hard on the back of the unfortunate pony. I lay there, dazed, as the cow charged straight at me. The cow started by this sudden attack, reared up and started running. I clung to her for dear life, as she charged up the road and round the corner. As we turned, I spotted two rows of resplendent cavalry officers, mounted on horses, coming towards us. They obviously belonged to the governor's bodyguard. I could only cling on helplessly as the frightened cow charged straight at the horses. The horses panicked and scattered. There was a regular stampede. The cow managed to fall into a ditch and in the process, dislodged me, and I landed on the soft earth bordering the ditch.

- Each unit starts with an introduction of the theme anchored by two girls Ayesha and Madhi.
- The pictorial warm up page will help activate students own knowledge and ideas of the topic.
- The digital warm up can be used for visualizing the theme to motivate and interest learners.

- In-Text questions in each section can be used for discussion and to check and develop comprehension skills.
- Digital glossary can be used for hearing correct pronunciation and visualizing words.
- The 'Do You Know?' box can be used to enhance general knowledge while initiating spoken language.

Section III

Read this section in pairs.

The whole earth snuffed out and fresh and even the normally serious-looking people in the village went around with smiles on their faces. The hole in the ground reflected the bright sunlight and the whole place was bathed in a golden glow. The buffaloes discovered the gravy spot and as buffaloes want to do, they wallowed in the puddle of mud.

I was not there to see, but I can tell that many afterwards did the buffaloes gather and thus with a smile on their faces, the whole village pit that was once a tiny depression had dried and grew and became a little watering hole.

"And they all lived happy ever after!" you will say in glee, but that rarely happens. The whole village had to come to agree that you all had to eat ashles.

Complete the sentences given below with words/phrases.

The wild dogs came to the spot to catch _____.
The whole earth smelt _____ and _____.
The hole in the ground was flat _____.
The hole became _____ and _____.

GLOSSARY

wallowed - to be and roll in mud mudhole - a large number of people threshing - creating tilled - prepared the land for crops
meagre - small quantity
gratitide - thankful

- The illustrations in Picto Grammar will enable understanding of grammar terms in a fun and easy way.
 - Digital Grammar Games can be used to reinforce learning to encourage students to learn by doing..
 - Language Check Point can highlight points of usage to avoid the common mistakes.

PICTO GRAMMAR

He ran fast but he missed the train.

Rani went to the market and bought vegetables.

It rained heavily but the match continued.

A conjunction is a word that joins two words or sentences.

When an action occurs (place)

- > How often an action occurs (frequency)
- > How an action occurs (manner)
- > When an action occurs (time)

USE GRAMMAR

Look at the pictures and fill in the blanks with suitable words.

The car was moving too _____

Leena did her classwork _____

4. Koertild Varan arrived _____

- Students can be taken through all the steps of writing with the help of pictures and prompts.
 - Creative writing can be used to bring out their writing skill.
 - Students can be encouraged to present or display their writings in the class .

- The warm up picture at the head of the section can be used to discuss the theme of the poem.
 - The focus should be on the enjoyment of the poem through exploring imagery and rhythm.
 - The supplementary section encourages extensive reading and appreciation of literature.

- Connecting to Self is based on the values of each lesson.
 - Project is meant for working in groups and to develop collaborative learning.
 - The development of higher order thinking skills is facilitated by the Steps to Success and Think and Answer sections.

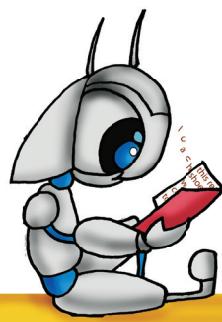

- Students can be encouraged to extend their reading activity through e-links and Reference Books.
 - Students can be helped to download the games and install them.
 - The activities in ICT Corner will ensure learning language skills through doing.

Unit - 1

Learning Objectives

This unit enables the students to:

- identify and recognise the nature of different seasons
- highlight the importance of water for survival of any living organisms
- understand the change of seasons at regular intervals in India
- realise the effect of natural calamities like storm and also get the awareness to overcome it
- understand the purpose of conjunctions and the usage of it
- read the text with correct stress and intonation and also learn the meaning of the unknown words by using dictionary
- enjoy reciting the poem rhythmically
- write a short paragraph on seasons using cohesive devices

Learning Outcomes

After learning this unit, the students will be able to:

- identify the different seasons
- compare the nature of different seasons
- value the importance of water for the survival of living organisms
- understand the different seasons occurring in India.
- become aware of the effect of natural calamities and act accordingly
- use the conjunctions appropriately between the sentences
- read the text with correct pronunciation, stress and intonation
- recollect the meaning of unknown words and use them accordingly
- recite the poem correctly with proper stress and intonation
- write small sentences cohesively to form a paragraph

Unit - 2

Learning Objectives

This unit enables the students to:

- learn new words and use the same in new context
- gain an understanding of the story and create their own humorous stories
- gain an understanding of adverbs
- develop poem appreciation skill
- develop the skill of making ethical choices in life

Learning Outcomes

After learning this unit, the students will be able to:

- ▶ identify the new words and understand their contextual meaning
- ▶ illustrate and summarize the story
- ▶ create their own hilarious stories based on the pictures given
- ▶ define what is an adverb and distinguish between an adverb and an adjective
- ▶ identify the poetic devices used in the poem
- ▶ debate and discuss on what is morally acceptable and what is not

Unit - 3

Learning Objectives

This unit enables the students to :

- recognise the different characters occurring in the play
- identify the setting of the play
- analyse the relationship between the characters in the play
- compare and contrast the behaviours of the characters
- read the play with proper voice modulation relevant to the characters
- imagine themselves as Mowgli and express their thoughts accordingly
- stage a play with proper setting and co-operation within the peers
- revise the grammar topics learnt previously

Learning Outcomes

After learning this unit, the students will be able to :

- ▶ recall the characters and their role in the play
- ▶ describe the setting of the play
- ▶ bring out the differences among the characters
- ▶ read the play by forming groups with correct voice modulation
- ▶ express the behaviour of Mowgli based on their own thoughts
- ▶ organise a play with proper planning and peer group co-ordination
- ▶ work out the grammar exercises based on their previous learning
- ▶ write their own sentences according to the situations given

In which season can you see trees without leaves? Name the country where you can find this season.

Which season is shown in this picture?
What are the people doing?

Which season is shown in this picture?
How do you know?

READING

Section I

Listen to the teacher read this section.

Once upon a time, on the outskirts of a dusty little village, a tiny bird searched for a place to lay her eggs. The land was parched and dry and there wasn't a bush or tree in sight. Finally in desperation, the little bird discovered a shallow depression in the ground. Using her claws to remove the stones and loosen up the packed earth, she broadened the hole and there, underneath the hot sun, she laid her eggs. The eggs hatched and the good mother protected and fed her babies until they were big enough to fly away... And here our story would have ended, except, this isn't a tale of the little bird but a much more interesting one of the hole she used as a temporary nest.

"A hole?" you may ask. "What could be interesting about a hole in the ground?" Well, this hole grew to be quite important, as you will discover.

For some time the hole remained dusty and untenanted, until one day a passing wild boar settled his rump into the depression. The pit was not comfortable enough and getting up, he scraped and dug, carving a pit of more hospitable proportions. Backing into this hollow, he turned around a few times and with a satisfied grunt settled down to a long snooze. A very long snooze it was too. The boar turned and scrabbled in his sleep, loosening the earth around his cosy dugout until the fading sun and the rumble in his stomach told him it was time to get up. With a mighty stretch and a final kick, the hungry boar departed his daybed without a backward glance.

"And is that it?" you will enquire. To which I will reply, "No it isn't, dear one. Not by a long shot. Our story has just begun."

GLOSSARY

outskirts	- the outer areas of a city or a town	scrabbled	- moved hands and feet around
parched	- very dry	cosy	- comfortable
desperation	- losing hope	rumble	- a low sound like thunder
untenanted	- not occupied
rump	- back part of a mammal's body or the part of the body you use to sit

Put a (✓) for the correct and (✗) for the incorrect statements.

1. A tiny bird looked for a place to lay her eggs.
2. The land was wet and green.
3. The little bird found a shallow hollow in the ground.
4. The eggs hatched and the babies flew away.
5. The pit was comfortable for the wild boar to sleep in.
6. The wild boar got up from its day bed because it was disturbed by another boar.

Do you know

WEATHER: The conditions in the atmosphere like rain, wind, or temperature at any time

CLIMATE: The general weather conditions of a place. (e.g.) a warm climate, cold climate

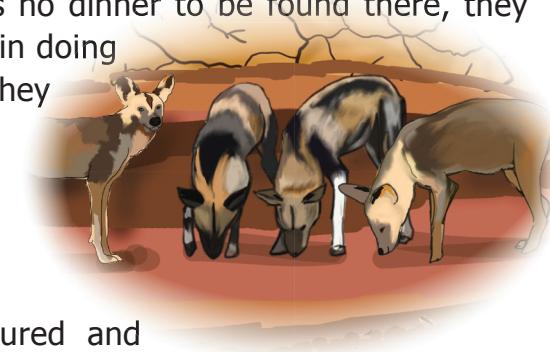

SEASONS: One of the four periods of the year which has its own typical weather conditions resulting from the earth's changing positions in its orbit around the sun

Section II

Read this section in pairs.

A pack of wild dogs catching the scent of boar in the wind came to the spot where he had lain. They sniffed the circle that was rich with the smell of the animal. They whined and snarled and dug at the smell as if digging the elusive boar himself out of the ground. Finally, realising that there was no dinner to be found there, they departed, their noses and tails high in the air. And in doing so, they left the hole a little bigger and wider than they had found it.

"And then what happened?" you will ask.
"Do other animals come along too?" They do indeed, my child. I told you the hole had a story to tell!

Not long after, the rains came. It poured and poured and only those of us who have seen the monsoons will know what that means. It rained without stopping for three days and three nights and the dry earth soaked up the moisture, as a hungry puppy laps up milk.

GLOSSARY

sniffed - to breathe in air in a noisy way	snarled - made a deep angry noise
whined - made a high pitched cry	soaked - completely wet

The whole earth smelled wet and fresh and even the normally serious-looking people in the village went around with smiles on their faces. The hole in the ground collected the water that fell and around its edges the grass grew a brighter green. Soon buffaloes discovered the grassy spot and as buffaloes want to do, they wallowed in the puddly water, turning the hole into a muddy pit.

I was not there to see, but I am told that many afternoons did the buffaloes gather and thus with a multitude of hooves trampling the soil, the pit that was once a tiny depression, widened and grew and became a little watering hole.

"And they all lived happily ever after!" you will say in glee. But that rarely happens in real tales, my dear. There is more to go, so you will have to wait awhile.

Complete the sentences given below with words/phrases.

The wild dogs came to the spot to catch _____.

The rains came and poured _____.

The whole earth smelled _____ and _____.

The hole in the ground was filled _____.

The buffalo _____ in the hole.

The hole became _____ and _____.

Section III

Read this section in pairs.

A poor farmer tilled the land near the once small depression. His life was hard and the rains were often cruel. In summer months he had to travel far to get water for his thirsty crops and even then his harvest was meagre. One day, not long after the last of the season's rains, he straightened up from his back-breaking work and looked over the land that was soon becoming brown again. And on the horizon, just beyond his pitiful plot, his eyes came to rest on a patch of green. Going closer to investigate, the farmer fell to the ground with gratitude at wallowed - to lie and roll in mud

GLOSSARY

tilled - prepared the land for crops

multitude - a large number of people

meagre - small quantity

trampling - crushing

gratitude - thankful

the sight of the verdant bowl. Here was water to be had, and so close to his holding! Forgetting all tiredness, he raced home and brought out his pickaxe and spade and soon the buffaloes' picnic spot was a perfectly decent little pond.

"Is this story going to end with a moral?" you ask me suspiciously. No, little one, but there is something to learn from everything we see and hear; so hush, while I come to end of the tale.

So happy was the farmer that he told his wife who summoned the village priest to bless their fortune. I do not need to tell you how soon news travels in a little village and so it was quite a crowd that gathered by the side of the pond to see the priest furrow his brow and chant serious something that nobody ever understands.

Just then, the richest farmer in the village pushed his way to the front of the group. He was always upset when things took place that he was not invited to. Looking at the farmer and the placid pond, a slow smile of contentment creased his face. "I see you have come to bless my pond," he said to the priest. "Your pond?" stuttered the poor farmer. "Why yes," smoothly oiled the rich one. "Your patch, surely, ends just there. This land is all mine." And saying this he crossed his arms and planted his feet four-square on the ground. As the rich farmer and the poor one looked at each other, the buffaloes, the dogs, the boar and yes, even the little bird stopped by to see. They all stood around the little jewel of blue and in every mind, small and big, came a similar thought: "Surely, I had something to do with this!"

And so I end with a question to you, my beloved friend.

"Who owns the water?" Not a moral, just a thought – a germ of an idea to dig and make bigger.

Answer the following questions in one or two sentences.

1. Why did the farmer have to travel far?
2. What sight made the farmer thankful?
3. Name the tools the farmer brought out. What did he do with them?
4. Why did the crowd gather by the side of the pond?
5. When did the richest farmer get upset? Why?

A Childhood in Malabar: A Memoir

It was someone's birthday at Ambazhathel – I'm not sure whose – the day there was a cyclone. Ettan, my elder brother, and I were invited to the feast there that day. Malathikutty took us to the serpent shrine before lunch. We watched Meenakshi Edathi setting out turmeric, milk and bananas for the snakes.

Meenakshi Edathi was a distant relative of the Ambazhathel family. Being poor, she was dependent on their generosity. She was dark-skinned and middle-aged. She spent her time rushing around the house and compound, never stopping to rest, her face perpetually wearing an expression that asked for forgiveness. She had only certain trivial duties to perform, like welcoming the oracle with an offering of paddy when he came in a procession, lighting all the lamps at dusk, churning the curd and taking out the butter for the children, and drawing designs with rice batter on the door on the day of the Nira festival. There were innumerable servants to carry out all other tasks. However, the family could not have existed happily for a single day without Meenakshi Edathi. She was the only one who knew how much paddy should be boiled each time to make enough rice for the household or how many mundus had been given to the washerman or when to give the children a purgative.

'Why isn't the snake coming?' I asked.
'Snakes never come out when human beings are watching, child. The black Krishnasarpam will glide out as soon as we go away,' said Meenakshi Edathi.

I began to feel sleepy after lunch. Malathikutty came back with us to Nalapat. Barely an hour after we got home, we heard the sound of the gale. The wind tore through the coconut palms in the southern compound with a frightening roar. The dry leaves that had collected around the pond swirled upwards belligerently. Branches shook. The seat of the swing that hung from the ilanji tree fell down.

'I wonder whether it's a cyclone . . . The sound of it scares me,' said Ammamma. She asked all of us to sit down in the middle room upstairs and gave us metal dice to play with. Since the light had grown dim, she lit a brass lamp as well. Muthassi called out from the thekkini, the southern room, downstairs, 'Have you closed all the small windows, Kochu?' 'I'll close them, Amme; I'll close all of them,' answered Ammamma. We suddenly heard the sound of the rain from the south-west, like the roar of a vast crowd of people. Using all her force, Ammamma slammed the windows shut. Raindrops glimmered on her face.

'It's not even four, but it's pitch dark outside,' said Ammamma. 'I want to see Kutti Oppu,' said Malathikutty. 'She'll come by dusk,' said Ammamma. 'I want to go to Ambazhathel now, this minute,' said Malathikutty. 'I'll send you to Ambazhathel as soon as the storm stops.' Ammamma tried to comfort her, but Malathikutty began to sob loudly. That was when we heard a coconut palm crashing down. 'Kochu, what was that? Will the house collapse?' That was Muthassi.

'Don't worry. It was a coconut palm falling. We'll go and have a look at it once the rain stops. Let's say our prayers and sit here quietly,' said Ammamma. All of us took shelter in the southern room downstairs as Ammaman's mother instructed us to do.

She said this room had the strongest ceiling. The thekkini was flooded and the water that had collected in the sunken courtyard of the nalukettu, the central hall with four wooden pillars, began to overflow. Ammaman and all of us sat on the bed. Ammamma and the grandmothers sat on the rolled-up mattresses stacked on the floor. And the servant woman took refuge in the makeshift toilet adjacent to the room.

Ammayi arrived, drenched to the skin, unmindful of the thunder and lightning and driving rain. 'How can you be so foolish, Bala? What if you fall ill of a fever?' asked Ammaman. Ammayi laughed. 'Here's Kutti Oppu,' exclaimed Malathikutty joyfully. Ammayi hugged her.

Cheriamma suggested that we chant aksharaslokams to forget our fear: each one of us would have to recite a verse and the next person would follow with a verse that began with the first letter of the third line of the quatrain that had just been chanted. No one volunteered, though. So Cheriamma recited from Vallathol's Imprisoned Aniruddhan. Ammamma said, 'I can't remember a single couplet.' 'I hope the house doesn't collapse,' murmured Muthassi.

As soon as Ammaman and Ammayi went upstairs, the servant woman started to wail loudly. She kept hitting her head with her hands while she wailed. 'What madness is this?

Do you want to break open your head?' asked Ammamma. 'What if I never see my folks again. . . My Guruvayoorappa! I'll never see them again!' 'You can go home tomorrow morning, as soon as the rain stops. All right?' said Muthassi. 'This rain will never stop. It's a whirlwind, isn't it? We'll all die,' sobbed the woman.

'Is she crazy?' asked Muthassi. We heard trees crashing to the ground. And a dog whining in the western yard. 'Aiyo, Sankara! What if the cowshed crumbles? Bring the cows in and tie them up in the washing area outside the kitchen,' said Ammamma. 'The cowshed won't fall down, Valiamma. Its beams are quite strong,' said Sankaran Nair, who had gone to check things out. 'Then let the cows stay there.'

'There's knee-deep water in the yard now,' said Sankaran. 'We want to swim,' I cried. 'You can swim in the courtyard of the nalukettu,' said Ettan. I put my hand into the water in the courtyard. 'It's ice-cold.' I grumbled. 'Don't play in the water, children,' Ammamma called out loudly. We climbed back on the bed. Someone seemed to be knocking on the door on the southern side. Sanakaran opened it. A dog stood on the verandah, dripping wet-Thumbi, the black-and-white pet dog from Ambazhathel.

'Look, here's Thumbi. He's drenched. Poor thing, he must have come out with Balamani Amma,' said Sankaran. We looked at Thumbi and he looked at us. He was shivering in the cold. Sankaran spread a gunny bag on the verandah. 'Lie down on this. In a storm like this, how can we make a difference between a man and a dog? Go to sleep, Thumbi.' Thumbi lay down on the gunny bags and looked contentedly at me and my brother. We spent the whole night in the southern room. By the time we woke up, the rain had stopped.

It was the sound of a pleading voice saying 'Please open the gate' that actually woke me. A young man stood smiling in the waist-high water at the gate. 'I'm from Vadekkara. Is everyone here all right?' 'Yes,' said Ammamma. 'We've had no casualties. How did you come, Balan?' 'I started out at daybreak and waded through the water.' 'That's really smart!' 'The number of huts and trees that have collapsed! Fowls lying dead everywhere, dead goats floating in the water -- what a sight!' 'Come in, Balan, and change your mundu.'

'Have they sent us anything from Vadekkara? Murukkus or dates?' I asked. 'No, child. I've come empty-handed,' said Balan, displaying his buck teeth. 'What a time to ask for murukkus and dates!' muttered Ammaman's mother. I hung my head, ashamed.

SPIN A YARN

The starting of a story is given. Develop it into a humorous story.

Once there lived a boy who bragged endlessly about himself _____

Section I

Listen to your teacher read a part of the story. Go through the questions given below in section I. Answer them in one or two sentences.

My father was posted in Patna. On the first Sunday there, my brother and I decided to do a little exploring on our bikes. It was still very early in the morning, and only a few people were about. The roads were good and the trees lining them were shady. There were no imposing buildings or monuments as there are in Delhi, from where we had just come.

After cycling for about half-an-hour, my brother got bored and said, "Come on, I'll race you to that corner. The loser treats the other to a chocolate, okay?"

"Okay, one, two, three!" I said, and then we were off.

This was not the first time we had raced. Only my brother had invariably beaten me and then crowed about it for days. I was determined to win this time. I pedalled as fast as I could. My legs ached and my skirt billowed out, threatening to hit my face. The trees on either side of the road had become one green blur. My hair blew behind me and my lungs were bursting for air. Soon I drew level with my brother and then gradually I moved ahead.

Answer in one or two sentences.

1. Why did the family move to Patna?
2. Who was challenged for a race?
3. Is the brother boastful? What makes you think so?
4. Why did the trees become a green blur?
5. Which line tells you that the girl was faster than the boy?

GLOSSARY

exploring	- travelling for discovery
imposing	- grand or impressive
invariably	- always
crowed	- boasted

billowed out	- to flare out in the wind
threatening	- warning
blur	- unclear

In the dictionary

Once there were three turtles. One day they decided to go on a picnic. When they got there, they realized they had forgotten the soda. The youngest turtle said he would go home and get it if they wouldn't eat the sandwiches until he got back. A week went by, then a month, finally a year, when the two turtles said, "Oh, come on, let's eat the sandwiches." Suddenly the little turtle popped up from behind a rock and said, "If you do, I won't go!"

Witty usage of English language

- ❖ Both of you stand together separately.
- ❖ Will you hang the calender or else, I will hang myself.
- ❖ Give me a blue pen of any colour.
- ❖ Pick up the paper and fall in the dustbin.
- ❖ Why are you looking at the monkeys outside when i am inside?
- ❖ All of you stand in straight circle.
- ❖ I have two daughter both are girls

Do you know

There really is a science to laughing. In fact, the science of laughing and its effects on the body is referred to as Gelotology.

Laughter boosts your immune system by enhancing your antibodies – which help fight infections – and increasing your immune cell count. This helps reduce chance of illness and missing out on work.

The American Comedy Awards are a group of awards presented annually in the United States recognizing performances and performers in the field of comedy. It was begun in 1987.

Section II

Read the section on your own. Draw a picture to describe the part of the story that you like the most.

I could see the corner, in a haze. I was starting to whoop with glee, but the whoop froze on my lips. There, right in the middle of the road, stood alone cow! I jammed on the brakes and the cycle stopped abruptly, but I could not stop the momentum of my own body. I flew over the handlebars and landed smack on the back of the unfortunate animal. The cow, startled by this sudden attack, reared up and started running. I clung to her for dear life, as she charged up the road and round the corner. As we turned, I spotted two rows of resplendent cavalry officers, mounted on their magnificent horses coming towards us. They obviously belonged to the governor's bodyguard. I could only cling on helplessly as the frightened cow charged straight at the horses. The horses panicked and scattered. There was a regular stampede. The cow managed to fall into a ditch and in the process, dislodged me, and I landed on the soft earth bordering the ditch.

Read the events of the story. They are in the wrong order. Put them in the correct order.

- ❖ And it charged straight at the cavalry officers on horseback.
- ❖ And so she flew onto the back of the cow.
- ❖ So everybody panicked and made a general rush to safety.
- ❖ The startled cow charged off in fear.
- ❖ She applied the brakes, but was thrown off the cycle.
- ❖ Just then she saw a lone cow in the middle of the road.
- ❖ Finally the cow fell into a ditch and dislodged the girl.
- ❖ The girl cried out in delight as she overtook her brother on her cycle.

GLOSSARY

abruptly - suddenly momentum - the force of a moving body unfortunate - unlucky startled - frightened resplendent - brilliant in appearance

cavalry - a unit of the army serving on horseback magnificent - grand stampede - rush
dislodged - freed

Section III

Read the section silently.

I sat up with a groan and saw that the cavalry horses were still out of control. Some of them were running like mad in circles, while their riders tried to bring them under control. Two horses were nowhere to be seen, and one horse threw its rider right in front of my eyes. The poor man landed in the ditch just next to the cow. The cow thinking this was another attack, bellowed loudly and, lowering its head at the unfortunate man. The poor fellow scrambled out of the ditch, tearing his pants at rather an awkward place. Realising this, he sat down on the road with a thump and would not get up. I saw my brother approaching with my bike in tow, coming up to me with a grin on his face. I felt like hitting him.

"You looked such a sight on top of that cow," he said and started laughing.

Then he probably realised that I might have been hurt and asked, "Are you all right?"

"Of course, I am," I said haughtily and got up at once.

Nothing on earth would have made me admit to him how frightened and shaken I was. Just then my brother spotted one of the horse riders coming towards us with a thunderous scowl on his face. Behind him was the man to whom, in all probability, the cow belonged.

My brother gave them an uneasy glance and said, "I think it would be nice if we moved quickly from here."

I looked round and saw that if both of us did not move fast enough, we would be called in for a lot of explanations. With one accord we got onto our bikes and beat a hasty retreat. The morning had already been rather eventful and we did not want to add another unpleasant episode to it.

- SAVITA SINGH

Based on your reading, put a (✓) for the correct and (✗) for the incorrect statements.

1. The man didn't want to get up because he was tired as he was thrown into the ditch.
2. The boy was rather unsympathetic to his sister.
3. The girl was badly hurt.
4. The boy and the girl were taken by the cavalry to explain their action.
5. They rode back home quickly.
6. The girl admitted to her brother that she was badly frightened.

GLOSSARY

WRITING

N. Work in groups and write a paragraph on "Laughter is the best medicine."

Use the hints

Paragraph burger

Introduction

Ask students to write a topic sentence. It clearly indicates what the whole paragraph is going to be about.

e.g: Laughter is the best medicine.

The internal or supporting information

Let students compose several supporting sentences that give more information about the topic.

e.g: It can relieve us from any kind of stress. Life has become monotonous...too busy to pay heed to our health...stressful work schedules...

Conclusion

Instruct students on ways to write a concluding sentence that restates the topic sentence.

e.g: In general....To conclude...Thus....To sum up...Therefore...It is important to have sense of humour.

CREATIVE WRITING

O. Look at the cartoon strips. Create your own humorous story.

A TRAGIC STORY

WARM UP

Pin the tail on the donkey.

Scan here to get the picture of the donkey.

Use a dark coloured cloth to cover the participant's eyes. Have the player stand close to the picture of the donkey. Spin the player five to ten times. Now let the blind folded player pin a tail.

Read the poem silently. Based on your reading discuss in class whether the incidents are humorous or tragical.

There lived a sage in days of yore,
And he a handsome pigtail wore;
But wondered much and sorrowed more,
Because it hung behind him.

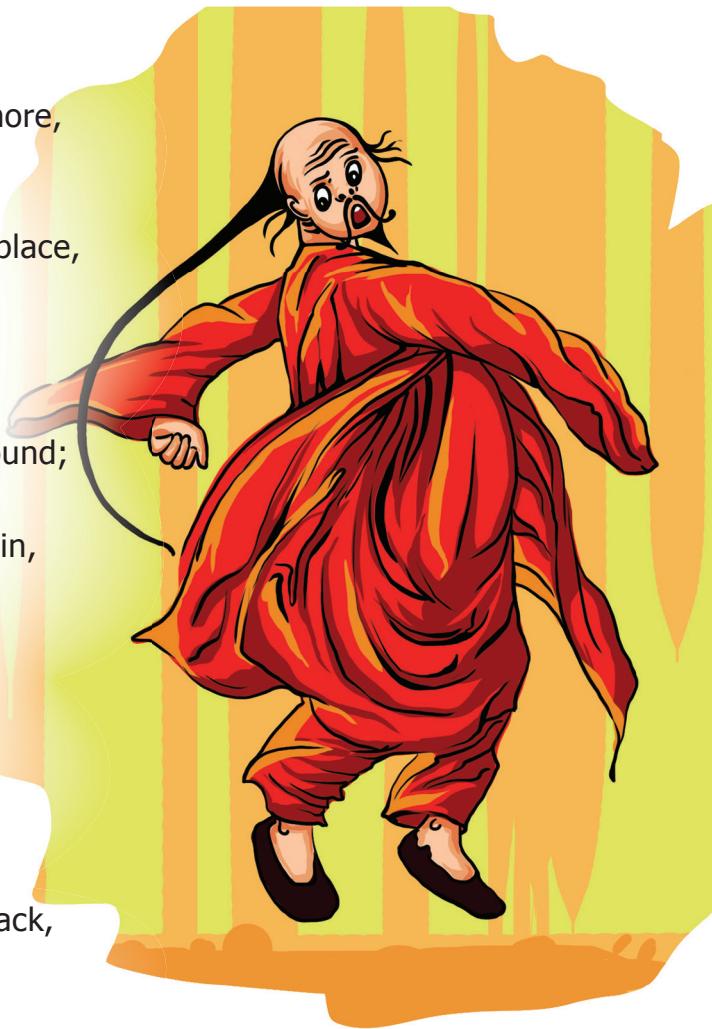

He mused upon this curious case,
And swore he'd change the pigtail's place,
And have it hanging at his face,
Not dangling there behind him.

Says he, "The mystery I've found –
Says he, "The mystery I've found!
I'll turn me round," he turned him round;
But still it hung behind him.

Then round and round, and out and in,
All day the puzzled sage did spin;
In vain—it mattered not a pin –
The pigtail hung behind him.

And right and left and round about,
And up and down and in and out
He turned; but still the pigtail stout
Hung steadily behind him.

And though his efforts never slack,
And though he twist and twirl, and tack,
Alas! Still faithful to his back,
The pigtail hangs behind him.

- William Makepeace Thackeray

GLOSSARY

sage	- wise man	mused	- thought over
yore	- long ago	curious	- eager to learn more pigtail	- a plaited lock of hair worn singly at the back	mystery	- puzzle
		stout	- thick in structure

William Makepeace Thackeray was one of the great novelists of the English Victorian Age. His 'Vanity Fair' is one of the finest and best-known novels in English literature. Thackeray wrote in a colorful, lively style, with a simple vocabulary and clearly-structured sentences. These qualities, combined with his honest view of life, give him an important place in the history of realistic literature.

A. Answer the following.

1. What made the sage upset?
2. Why did the sage spin all day?
3. What solution did he arrive at for the mystery that he found?
4. Was he finally successful in changing his pigtail's position? Support your answer with a line from the poem.
5. Did something dreadful happen? How would you describe the events in the poem—comedy or tragedy?

B. Read the poem lines and answer the questions given below.

1. But wondered much and sorrowed more
Because it hung behind him.
 - a) What was he wondering about?
 - b) What does the word 'it' refer to here?
2. And though his efforts never slack
And though he twist, and twirl, and tack,
Alas! Still faithful to his back
The pigtail hangs behind him.
 - a) Pick out the rhyming words from the above lines and give the rhyme scheme for the same.
 - b) Did he quit his trying? How can you say?
3. 'He mused upon this curious case'
What is the figure of speech used in this line?
4. Irony is a figure of speech in which words are used in such a way that their intended meaning is different from the actual meaning. It may also be a situation that ends up in quite a different way than what is generally anticipated. In simple words, it is a difference between appearance and reality.
Can this poem be called an ironic poem? Justify your answer.

C. Fill in the table with the appropriate poem lines. A few lines may be used more than one time.

Pick the line or lines that
➤ suggest the sage lacked practical common sense	e.g. And swore he'd change the pigtail's place
➤ make the poem humorous
➤ show the clowning movements of the sage
➤ that are actually funny but have a serious tone

D. The summary of the poem is given. But there are some words missing. Fill in the blanks with the help of the box given below.

faithfully, change, pigtail, round, sage, down, slack, out, hung,
place, behind, vain, face

Once upon a time there lived a _____. He had a handsome _____. He was worried and pondered over his pigtail's _____. He wanted to _____ it's place. He wanted it hanging at his _____. He didn't like it hanging there _____ him. So he turned right and left and _____ about, up and _____, and in and _____ but it still _____ behind him. However he tried, his efforts were in _____. But he didn't _____ in his efforts. Nevertheless his pigtail hung _____ behind him.

E. Role play

Work with a partner. Let one student read the poem and the other to pantomime (communication by means of gesture and facial expression) the poem as he or she reads.

BROUGHT TO BOOK

"This has got to stop immediately," Justice Mathematics said in a stern voice, rapping the hammer for silence in the court.

He pushed back the horn-rimmed glasses up his nose and glared first at Mahesh and then at the crowd in the court. Everybody respected him, even Mahesh, so a pin-drop silence fell in the court instantly.

"Let us proceed," Justice Mathematics said nodding his head.

"Your witness, first," he gestured at the torn Ms. English.

Mahesh chewed his nails nervously.

"Your Honour," began the lady, in a trembling voice, "when I came to this house, I wore a lovely pink and grey dress, shiny and unmarked. And, Sir, just look at me now."

Everybody gazed at her. Her dress was unrecognizable. Covered with ink and grease spots, mercilessly dog-eared and two corners chewed away, she looked a wreck. Tears rolled down Ms. English's cheeks.

Offering her a handkerchief, Justice Mathematics asked gently, "How did it happen, Ms. English?"

"Well," sniffed Ms. English, "this boy," she pointed at Mahesh, "brought me home a few months back but never bothered to cover me properly with the nice brown paper his father had brought."

"Did Mahesh not get scolded and punished in school for that?" Justice Mathematics enquired.

"Oh, yes, he was, repeatedly," said Ms. English in a tearful voice, "but all the punishment and scolding slipped off him like water off a duck's back! Not only did he ruin my looks," she continued, "he also ill-treated me."

The audience was stunned, ill-treating a delicate creature like Ms. English! How terrible! By now tears had started rolling down Ms. English's big eyes. And stopping only to sniff delicately in her handkerchief, she told everyone about how Mahesh dropped her carelessly, stuffed her anyhow in his crammed bag, sometimes next to the lunch box dripping with oil! Mahesh turned red as many pairs of eyes glared at him. Oh! Why had he not listened to his mother, who had told him many times to take care of his books! He was otherwise a good boy and even managed to stay within the first five ranks in class. But he was extremely lazy.

"Mahesh!" the stentorian voice of Justice Mathematics brought him back to reality. "What do you have to say for yourself?"

Mahesh managed to mumble an apology, "I am sorry, Sir!"

"What do you mean by saying 'sorry'?" screamed Justice Mathematics. "You have to undo what you have done. Do you understand?" He looked above the top of his glasses and seemed as if he would like to bite Mahesh. "Next!" he barked at the peon.

Mr. Geography stood up shakily and went to the witness box. He was in a worse condition than Ms. English. He had no cover, the 'Contents' page was hanging in on its last threads but the worst part were the maps. They had been filled in mercilessly with all the colours in the paint box!

"Yes!" prompted Justice Mathematics.

"My story is quite similar to Ms. English's," Mr. Geography said in a broken voice. "All my fellow brothers laugh at me whenever Mahesh pulls me out of his bag. I especially envy my brother who belongs to Shobitha. She has not only covered him neatly, her handling is so gentle that he always looks as if he has just stepped out of the bookseller's shop, and," he added, "she fills in her maps with a pencil!"

And so it went on with all the books, copies, pencil box and even the school bag complaining about Mahesh's negligence. They looked battered and the worse for wear. Justice Mathematics' face became dark when he heard that Mahesh tore off pages from the copies to make paper planes. Mahesh withered under his murderous look.

Mr. Pencil Box complained that Mahesh never cleaned it. As a matter of fact, he had covered the court floor with pencil shavings the moment he had stood up as awitness and accidentally opened himself! This was not all. Mahesh chewed him whenever he got stuck for an answer! He pointed at his pock-marked body for everyone to see.

The elderly and ponderous Mr. School Bag lumbered to the witness box with his broken straps and buckles dragging behind him.

"I might as well be a sack of cement," he began in a grave voice, "as that is how I am treated. Mahesh never packs me the night before as all sensible children do, but leaves it till the very last moment. And then, naturally there isn't any time to do anything but cram everything in anyhow. With the result, neither my friends inside nor I am happy."

"Your Honour!" piped a small voice, "I also want to say something." Justice Mathematics looked carefully and found that the voice belonged to a small notebook, much in the same condition as others.

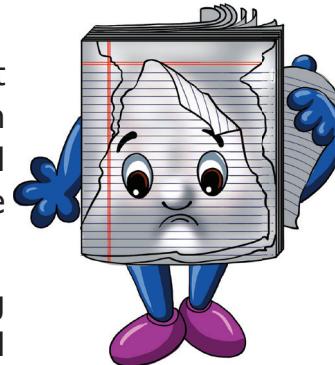

"All right," he nodded, "please come to the witness box."

The young Master Notebook marched to the witness box and took the oath, "Your Honour, it has become a regular practice and I don't know how long I will be able to bear it..." he stopped, all choked up.

"Do go on!" prompted Justice Mathematics gently.

The Master Notebook got hold over himself and continued, "It started a few weeks back. Mahesh was solving some problems in Mathematics, one of them was tougher than others and he failed to solve it. Can you imagine how he vented his anger? Well, he threw me against the wall!"

A shock wave rent the courtroom and everybody started talking at once. Justice Mathematics went red with anger as he banged the hammer loudly, and you could see that he was wishing that the table were Mahesh. Mahesh, meanwhile, stared at his boots. Was he really that cruel? He felt really ashamed of himself.

"I intensely dislike such children who do not take proper care of their books," Justice Mathematics said in a serious voice, all the while eyeing Mahesh sternly.

"However, this court is different from the other courts. Here the punishment is decided by the victims and we decide by majority if the verdicts are more than one."

He looked at all the bedraggled books and notebooks, pencils and pencil box, and the school bag in the court.

They, in turn looked at Mahesh, each and every one of them in terrible anger. Mahesh trembled in his shoes.

"Let us thrash him first and then throw him against the wall as he threw me!" this was the Master Notebook, his voice shrill with fury.

"No! No! Let us all bite him and let him see how it feels to be chewed!" This obviously was Mr. Pencil Box.

He became so agitated that he once again opened himself and spilled some more pencil shavings on the floor!

"I suggest dragging him around the courtroom a dozen times will be a good punishment," said Mr. School Bag.

"Why don't we all jump on him together till he yells for mercy?" exclaimed Mr. Geography, rubbing his hands in anticipation.

This appealed to all of them and even Justice Mathematics got up from his chair to join the gang! Menacingly they all advanced towards Mahesh, who looked around frantically for somewhere to run to, somewhere to hide... Nothing! There was no place to run to! The mob was almost upon him when a soft voice rose above the frightening silence.

"I say, stop it! Please, do stop!" Amazed, everybody turned around, even Mahesh opened his eyes a crack which he had shut in fright. Then the petite Ms. English rose from her seat and spoke to Justice Mathematics in a firm voice, "I don't mean to interrupt, Your Honour, it is just that I feel that everyone deserves a second chance and, after all, this is Mahesh's first offence, he deserves a little consideration."

Mahesh looked at her in admiration, he could have hugged her! She was the one who had been treated most shamefully by him and look at her! Standing so staunchly by him! The others too saw reason and slowly backed off, agreeing to give Mahesh a second chance, "Mahesh, see that you never ill-treat a book again!" was Justice Mathematics' parting shot.

"Mahesh! Mahesh!" a hand started to shake him and he jumped.

Had the others changed their minds about not punishing him?

"Oh! Mahesh, do get up. You will be late for school!"

Slowly Mahesh opened his eyes.

Why! He was in his bed!

Yes! There was the battered bag on the floor, the books, half on the floor and others stuffed in the bag. But what was this? The English book was lying near his pillow and seemed to smile at him! Mahesh's mother was astonished to see him rushing through the chores and then sitting down to glue and cover his English book that very morning! Next year Mahesh Kumar got the prize for the 'BestLooked-After Books'.

3 The Jungle Book

Hey!

Ayesha, look at the little boy!
How did he befriend these wild animals?

It's a big story.
Let's read it.

WARM UP

Look at the pictures given below and talk about their habitat (living place, food, family, etc.)

The Jungle Book was written by Rudyard Kipling. The book has attracted audiences of all ages for its plot structure and characters. Children especially enjoy this story as it deals with the early childhood of a boy in the midst of wild animals in the forest.

Characters

Father Wolf

Mother Wolf

Tabaqui

Shere Khan

Narrator

Father Wolf, Mother Wolf, Tabaqui (the Jackal), Shere Khan (the Tiger), Man's Cub (Mowgli), Wolf's Cubs, Narrator

Scene I

The scene opens in the Seeonee Hills. It's seven o'clock, a sunny evening, in the middle of the jungle. The Moon is yet to rise and with no stars to brighten the sky, utter darkness surrounds the forest.

: Father Wolf wakes up from his day's rest, releases and spreads out his paws one after the other to make himself ready for the hunt. Mother Wolf with her big grey nose drops her four tumbling, squealing cubs into the mouth of the cave where they all live.

: Augrh! It is time to hunt again. (Moves down to spring downhill, where he notices a little shadow with a bushy tail at the entrance and whines).

: Good Luck go with you, O chief of the Wolves. And good luck and strong white teeth go with noble children that they may never forget the hungry in this world.

: (In a stiff tone) Enter, then, and look, but there is no food here.

: For a wolf it may not be enough, but for so mean a person as myself a dry bone is a good feast.

All thanks for this good meal (licking his lips).

(Looks at the Father and Mother Wolf who seem to be uncomfortable)

How beautiful are the noble children! How large are their eyes! And so young too!

(Sits still, rejoicing in the mischief that he had made. In a spiteful tone he says)
Shere Khan, the Big one has shifted his hunting grounds. He has told me that he will hunt among these hills for the next moon.

: Shere Khan was the tiger who lived near the Waingunga River, twenty miles away.

: (Angrily) He has no right to come here! By the law of the Jungle he has no right to change his quarters without due warning. If he comes here, he will frighten every head of game within ten miles and I – I have to kill for two, these days.

: (Quietly) His mother did not call him Lungri (the Lame One) for nothing. He has been lame in one foot from his birth. That is why he has only killed cattle. Now the villagers of the Waingunga are angry with him, and he has come here to make our villagers angry. They will scour the jungle for him when he is far away, and we and our children must run when the grass is set on fire. Indeed, we are grateful to Shere Khan!

: (Quietly) I go. You can hear Shere Khan below in the forest.

Scene II

: Father Wolf listened and below in the valley that ran down a little river he heard the dry, angry, whine of a tiger who has caught nothing and does not care if all the jungle knows it.

: The fool! To begin a night's work with that noise! Does he think that our bucks are like his fast Waingunga bullocks?

: Hush! It is neither bullock nor he hunts tonight. It is Man.

: The whine had changed to a sort of humming purr that seemed to come from every quarter of the compass. It was the noise that bewilders woodcutters and gypsies sleeping in the open, and makes them run sometimes into the very mouth of the tiger.

: Man! (Showing all his white teeth.) Hah! Are there not enough beetles and Man, and on our ground too!

Scene III

: The law of the Jungle, which never orders anything without a reason, forbids every beast to eat Man except when he is killing to show his children how to kill, and then he must hunt outside the hunting grounds of his pack or tribe. The real reason for this is that Man-killing means, sooner or later, the arrival of men on elephants with guns and rockets and torches. Then everybody in the jungle suffers. The reason the beasts give among themselves is that Man is the weakest and most defenceless of all living things, and it is true – that Man-eaters become mangy and lose their teeth. The purr grew louder, and ended in the full-throated howl.

: Aaarrh!

: Then there was a howl – an untigerish howl – from Shere Khan.

: He has missed.

: What is it? [Runs out a few paces and hears Shere Khan muttering and mumbling as he tumbles about in the scrub.] The fool has had no more sense than to jump at a woodcutter's campfire, and has burned his feet. [With a grunt]. Tabaqui is with him.

: Something is coming uphill. [Twitching one ear] Get ready!

: The bushes rustled a little in the forest and Father Wolf dropped with his haunches under him, ready for his leap. Then, if you had been watching, you would have seen the most wonderful thing in the world – the wolf checked in mid-spring.

He made his bound before he saw what it was he was jumping at, and then tried to stop himself. The result was that he shot up straight into the air for four or five feet, landing almost where he left ground.

: Man! (Snaps) A Man's cub. Look!

: Directly in front of him, holding on by a low branch, stood a naked baby who could just walk – as soft and as dimpled a little atom as ever came to a wolf's cave at night. He looked up into Father Wolf's face and laughed.

: Is that a Man's cub? I have never seen one. Bring it here.

: A wolf accustomed to moving his own cubs can if necessary, eat an egg without breaking it, and though Father Wolf's jaws closed right on the child's back not a tooth even scratched the skin as he laid it down among the cubs.

: (In a soft tone) How little! How naked, and – how bold!

: The baby was pushing his way between the cubs to get close to the warm hide.

: So this is a man's cub. Now, was there a wolf that could boast of a Man's cub among her children?

: I have heard now and again of such a thing, but never in our Pack or in my time. But see, he looks up and is not afraid.

: The moonlight was blocked out of the mouth of the cave, for Shere Khan's great square head and shoulders were thrust into the entrance. Tabaqui behind him, was squeaking.

: My Lord, my Lord, it went in here!

: Shere Khan does us great honour, (angrily) what does he need?

: My quarry. A Man's cub went this way. Its parents have run off. Give it to me.

: Shere Khan had jumped at a woodcutter's campfire, as Father Wolf had said, and was furious from the pain of his burned feet. But Father Wolf knew that the mouth of the cave was too narrow for a tiger to come in by. Even where he was, Shere Khan's shoulders and forepaws were cramped for want of room as a Man's cub would be if he tried to fight in a barrel.

: The Wolves are a free people. They take orders from the Head of the Pack, and not from any striped cattle-killer. The Man's cub is ours – to hunt if we choose.

: What talk is this of choosing? It is I, Shere Khan, who speaks!

: The tiger's roar filled the cave with thunder. Mother Wolf shook herself clear of the cubs and sprang forward, her eyes, like two green moons in the darkness, facing the blazing eyes of Shere Khan.

: And it is I, Raksha, 'The Demon', who answers. The Man's cub is mine. He shall live to run with the Pack and to hunt with the Pack; and in the end, he shall hunt you!

: Father Wolf looked on amazed. He had almost forgotten the days when he won Mother Wolf in a fair fight from five other wolves, when she ran in the Pack and was not called 'The Demon' for compliment's sake. Shere Khan might have faced Father Wolf, but he could not stand up against Mother Wolf, for he knew that where he was she had all the advantage of the ground, and would fight to the death. So backed out of the cave mouth growling, and when he was clear he shouted.

: Each dog barks in his own yard! We will see what the Pack will say to this fostering of man-cubs. The man-cub is mine and will come to me in the end!

Scene IV

: Mother Wolf threw herself down panting among the cubs, and Father Wolf said to her gravely.

: Shere Khan speaks this much truth. The cub must be shown to the Pack. Will you still keep him, Mother?

: Keep him! (She gasps) He came naked, by night, alone and very hungry; yet he was not afraid! Look, he has pushed one of my babes to one side already. And that lame butcher would have killed him and would have run off to the Waingunga while the villagers here hunted through all our lairs in revenge! Keep him? Assuredly I will keep him.

Lie still, little frog. O you Mowgli – for Mowgli the Frog I will call you – the time will come when you will hunt Shere Khan as he has hunted you.

The story does not end here. It continues with many more episodes such as the acceptance of Mowgli by the Pack of Wolves, the friendship between Bagheera and Mowgli, Mowgli's adventurous trips in the jungle with Baloo (the bear), the fight between Mowgli and the Monkey's gang etc. Eventually Mowgli is forced to leave the jungle and he goes to live in the village. Later, he decides to return to the jungle and live there.

*LISTENING

Listen to your teacher read a description of the character from the story. Identify the character based on your understanding and write the name in the space provided. Number the characters in sequence as they appear in the story.

PROJECT

Read the story given below and follow the instructions to convert it into a play.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Read the complete story carefully.
2. Frame a suitable title for it.
3. List the characters occurring in the story.
4. Identify the events in the story.
5. Use a narrator to introduce the scenes occurring in the story, if needed.

A little girl named Goldilocks went for a walk in the forest. On her way, she came upon a house. She knocked at the door but no one answered, so she walked right in. She found three bowls of porridge in the kitchen. As she was hungry, she tasted the porridge from the first bowl. "This porridge is too hot!" she exclaimed. So, she tasted the porridge from the second bowl. "This porridge is too cold," she said. So, she tasted the last bowl of porridge. "Ahhh, this porridge is just right," she said and she ate it all up happily.

After she'd eaten breakfast she was feeling a little tired. So, she walked into the living room where she saw three chairs. Goldilocks sat in the first chair to rest her feet. "This chair is too big!" she exclaimed. So she sat in the second chair. "This chair is too big, too!" she whined. So she tried the last and smallest chair. "Ahhh, this chair is just right," she sighed. But just as she settled down into the chair to rest, it broke into pieces!

Goldilocks was very tired by this time, so she went upstairs to the bedroom. She laid down on the first bed, but it was too hard. Then she laid on the second bed, but it was too soft. Then she laid down on the third bed and it was just right. At last she fell asleep.

As she was sleeping, the three bears who lived in that house came home. "Someone's been eating my porridge," growled the Papa bear and Mama bear repeated the same. "Someone's been eating my porridge and they ate it all up!" cried the Baby bear. "Someone's been sitting in my chair," growled the Papa bear. "Someone's been sitting in my chair," said the Mama bear. "Someone's been sitting in my chair and they've broken it all to pieces," cried the Baby bear.

They decided to look around some more and when they got upstairs to the bedroom, Papa bear growled, "Someone's been sleeping in my bed," Mama bear repeated the same. "Someone's been sleeping in my bed and she's still there!" exclaimed Baby bear.

Just then, Goldilocks woke up and saw the three bears. She screamed, "Help!" And she jumped up and ran out of the room. Goldilocks ran down the stairs, opened the door, and ran away into the forest. And she never returned to the home of the three bears.

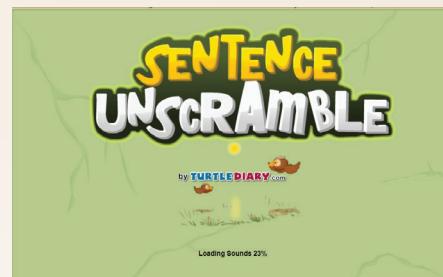

Form your groups and enact the play in your class.

Unit – 1

Now stay tuned for weather report.

This is weather forecast from news channel 7. We could not ask for a better day for the first day spring. Right now it is 15° C and clear we are expecting the blue skies through out the day, though there is only a 10 % of showers. This good weather can't last forever. It is raining cats and dogs up North. So we should see rain by morning. Don't forget your umbrella tomorrow.

Unit – 2

Once there lived three friends Vani, kavi and sumi. They always played pranks on one another. One day Vani bought some delicious berries and she decided to share them with her friends.

Kavi and Sumi were delighted to see the berries. The three of them sat and started eating the berries. Suddenly Sumi decided to play a trick on Kavi. When she looked under her chair she saw a small heap of berry seeds. She stealthily pushed the heap of seeds under Kavi's chair.

Then Sumi said, "What is this Kavi? You are so greedy! You alone have eaten so many berries." Kavi felt bad and didn't know what to say.

Vani looked here and there. When she looked under Sumi's chair there was no seeds. So, she replied "Sumi, Kavi was at least greedy, but see yourself. You have eaten all the berries including its seeds." Then Kavi understood that her friend had just played a trick on her and then all three of them laughed heartily.

Unit – 3

Description of the characters from the story "The Jungle Book"

- ❖ He is violent and intensely predatory, disrespectful to the law of the jungle. The main villain in the story and the archrival of Mowgli. He is nicknamed as 'Lungri' by his own mother.
- ❖ He always feeds on crumbs from either Shere Khan or the wolves of the Seeonee Pack. He is the only friend of Shere Khan. He acts as a spy and messenger to Shere Khan.
- ❖ She is very protective of the man-cub and raises him as her own. She is always ready to die in order to protect him. She is strong and brave but when angered she becomes the fiercest of wolf in the pack.
- ❖ He is taken away by a tiger from his village to the jungle, but fortunately he escapes and runs into a cave where a wolf family live. Mother wolf names him Mowgli the 'Little frog'. He is the main character in the story.
- ❖ He is one of Mowgli's main teachers, protects and guides Mowgli in all ways till the end of the story. He loves Mowgli a lot and the two spend much time together loitering in the jungle.
